HONGKONG JUNE 2ND 1875

THE address presented by the Chinese residents at Penning to Sir AMDREW CLARKE. late Governor of the Straits Settlements, is against the injustice and rapacity of the native chiefs of Perak, and Laroot. The Chinese population of the Straits is large and important, and on them, to a considerable extent, depends the prosperity of the pussed Settlements. The indolent Malay will never work save when obliged; the industrious Chinaman is always willing to toil so long as he is fairly paid, and the result is that in Singapore the Chinese population far out. July, 1871. numbers the native. The Chinese of the Straits have shown much laudable energy and enterprise, and some of them have become very wealthy. As a matter of course a good many dangerous characters arrive at Singapore and give some trouble to the authorities, but as a rule the Chinese are a lawabiding people, and are useful members purpose of raising a tublet in the school chapel of the community. Sir ANDREW CLARKE could not but be gratified at this spontaneous expression of esteem on the part of the Chinese of Penang, and will doubtless carefully preserve it. It is always pleasant for a ruler to feel be has secured and will bear away the good will and respect of those over whom he so when part of the community is of an alien race. It is to be hoped that Sir Annew Charre's successor will be equally popular with and beloved by the Chinese population, and that he will not lose sight of the interests of this numerous and important section of the community over whom he now

No reverse seems to teach wisdom to the bestowed; it is said, on place hunters; the native clergy are made subject and inferior to the Spanish clergy. Just so it was in Mexico, in Peru, in Chili, and other colonies. The colonial offices were in now probably is that they are bestowed We have heard that no encouragement is given to the cultivation of the soil, that the Government levies such | which has been offered to him by the Governexactions on the produce that the native cares not to raise more than is necessary for of Commander Douglas, who has expressed a were stripped of their branches. Commander Jones was one of those officers who and the lien's share of the profits on the closed with the offer of the Admiralty, as held weed pass into the exchequer. The good of the people, it is to be feared, is selfishly so- ing, accepted a pension and a step in rank; crificed to the greed of the mother country. The growth of various articles which the soi and climate of her colonies were specially fitted to produce was only tolorated under of Mesers. Appusting Heard and Co., of China, certain limitations, and in such quantities as Spain might annually require import. The colonists were also forbidden to manufacture anything which could be supplied by the mother country. Foreign trade was for a long time prohibited under pain of death. At the same time licenses were granted for the introduction of any article of foreign produce during-a limited period, and for these enormous sums work paid by the leading commercial houses, a share of the profits accruing being surren. Company, and the Victoria Fire, both local dered to the various officials of Government. When to this harsh, sclfish, and unjust treatmont, the colonists were also subject to the terrors of the Inquisition, and held in moral and intellectual darkness by fanatical priests, there is indeed little cause for wonder that the oppressed countries threw off the yoke of their cruel and foolish parent.

If, as we suspect, a similar blind policy is, stripped, however, of its baser features, being pursued in the Philippines, it is not surprising that the nows of the accession of the young Alphonso was received there with indifference. It would not, the people would doubtless conclude, affect them in any appreciable degree. At this distance they probably know little of the merits of parties, and care as little under what party or king they live. But this anathy is not a good sign. It sometimes thinly reils disaffection. The Government of Alphonso, when it is able to turn its attention to the colonies, will do wisely to them a similar autonomy to that possessed by British Colonies. Spain has few foreign possessions left, and will surely lose those if she continues to misgovern them. Cuba has cost her a vast amount of blood and the formidable rebellion in that island. her take warning by the past. It is pregnant with lessons for the future. PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

ROB comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are Co.'s peculiar principle, thereby making an old given, the accents being carefully marked on table as good as now. the best principle hitherto attained. Though "The Canterbury Tales." first appeared some years after the death of Edward III. they may be taken as illustrating the social life of the latter half of the fourteenth century; and there is hardly one of its phases, hardly an age or condition, which he has not fixed for ever in that comedy of manners. In his power of creating a character at once the type of a class and living, breathing individual; in the variety of his gifts, in the pathos, the humour, the brightness, the fancifulness, the profusion of his genius, he is no unworthy precursor of the golden age of English poetry-being indeed, in the words of Tennyson, CORNWALL FROM THE RAILWAY You leave the great world behind, with all its bustle, crowds, and express engines, when you get into the quiet little train that takes you leisurely up to Launceston, through woods, by the sides of rivers, over great valleys. There is a sense of repose about this railway journey. The train stops at any number of small stations apparently to let the guard have a chat with the stationmaster—and then jogs on in a quiet, contented fastrion. And on such an autumn day as this, that is a beautiful, still, richcoloured, and English-looking country through which it passes. Here is a deep valley, all glittering with the dew and the sunlight. Down in the hollow a farm-yard is half hidden behind the yellowing elms; a boy is driving a flock of white geese along the twisting road; the hedges are red with the withering briers. Up here, along the hill-I "smoked a good deal of tobacco," and sides, the woods of scrub tak are glowing bad tobacco," and to Peacock tobacco was with every imaginable hue of gold, crimson, He forgave me, however, on one and bronze, except where a few dark firs condition, that I never smoked within five appear, or where a tuft of broom, pure and hundred yards of his house—an arrangement bright in its green, stands out among the faded which, I am ashamed to say, I violated, for breckans.
